

Smudging ceremony for evacuees led by local elders

Residents of Fort McMurray delivered supplies for evacuees in Prince George

The City provided free admission for evacuees to our aquatic facilities.
There were more than 10,000 visits.

This local family set up outside of our evacuation centre providing free hugs and free bottles of water.

There were close to 1,000 evacuees in RVs, including these in the parking lot beside local soccer fields.

A delivery of supplies from Slave Lake, Alberta

These residents of Williams lake drove all over prince George with “Thank you Prince George” signs all over their vehicle.

Town halls hosted by the mayor and fire chief were a frequent occurrence.
More than a dozen in total through July.

Prince George residents lined up at the Volunteer Registration.
More than 500 registered the first day.

City staff put out about 800 cots.

Prince George became a haven for livestock,
all welcomed at the City Agriplex.

Inside the registration centre

Our volunteer sign-in desk inside the evacuation centre